Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-3, 5-8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Schmatz et al. (USPN 5096110).

Schmatz teaches a system for soldering a part comprising a means for replacing air around an unsoldered part with inert gas, means for replacing the gas with vacuum and means for backfilling the vacuum with gas and air which can be used for cooling. The gases are presumably the same (figure 1 and col 3 line 43 – col 4 line 8). The heating means can be heated to a plurality of different temperatures in a controlled manner (col 6 lines 20-63).

3. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Mitten et al. (US 2003/0160088 A1).

Mitten teaches a system for soldering a part comprising a conveyor for moving the part (paragraph 22), means for replacing air around an unsoldered part with inert gas, means for replacing the gas with vacuum, means for backfilling the vacuum with gas and air which can be used for cooling (paragraphs 23-25 and 29), loading locks (doors 21,22) connected to the vacuum reflow chamber (paragraphs 26-28) and a pump (paragraphs 34 and 45) for injection and removal of gas (paragraphs 55-62). The gases are presumably the same. The heating means can be heated to a plurality of different temperatures in a controlled manner (paragraphs 31-33). As the soldering is performed in a vacuum, the apparatus is capable of forming solder bumps with very low void volumes. Although the reference teaches soldering of a circuit board, it is noted that the object soldered does not further limit the apparatus.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Panitz et al. (USPN 5409543), Tanaka et al. (USPN 5454507), Cottone et al. (USPN 5102032) and Chugai (JPN 53-123354-A).
